Ranch Ehrlo Society receives international designation

Regina, SK – Ranch Ehrlo Society has reaffirmed its commitment to children, youth, families, and communities across the province with recognition and reaccreditation from the Council on Accreditation (COA).

The international designation comes at an important time as Ranch Ehrlo Society prepares to mark its 50th anniversary.

“Being recognized as an outstanding service provider reinforces our legacy of excellence,” said Andrea Brittin, CEO of Ranch Ehrlo Society. “Reaccreditation highlights the agency’s exceeding ability to deliver programs and services that meet and surpass international standards of best practice.”

With more than 5,000 service recipients, Ranch Ehrlo has an impact on many lives. COA accreditation provides assurance that Ranch programs and services are designed and delivered to the greatest benefit of the clients it serves.

Ranch Ehrlo Society is not mandated to complete or maintain accreditation, but voluntarily undergoes the intensive review to ensure that quality care is delivered. The reaccreditation process occurs once every four years and requires a detailed review and analysis of the agency’s operations and service delivery.
