

outcomes

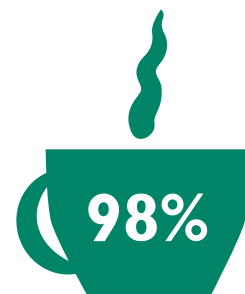

Programs for clients with developmental disabilities

This is a brief summary of the outcomes of Ranch Ehrlo Society's programs for clients with developmental disabilities for the period of June 1, 2015 to May 31, 2016. To view the full report go to ehrlo.com.

Ranch Ehrlo Society's programs for persons with developmental disabilities provide residential, educational, and vocational opportunities to people with multiple, complex, developmental needs.

feel generally happy

feel quality of life has improved

The goal is to promote an individual's optimal development so they can live more independently. Our specialized team works with each client to determine their individual need and integrates social interaction and normalization into their support plan.

The residential programs provide a variety of living arrangements to ensure clients are safe in their homes and that support for day-to-day living tasks is available. Our educational and vocational programs challenge participants to achieve their full potential for independence, productivity, and inclusion in the community.

percent of clients who were meeting part or all of their progress indicators for at least one goal.

increase in client stability from Nov. 2015 to May 2016.